Turning Spare Time into Profitable Art

CBN Staff Report

G Custom Creations started from a passion to learn something new during a change-in-life circumstance for Ryan Moeggenberg. After his family had two other part-time businesses close during the COVID pandemic, they moved into town from a ranch that was east of Bend and he looked for something new to learn to fill his spare time constructively. Acquiring used tools from Facebook and Craigslist — most needing complete refurbishment — he started woodworking. With his new-found time during COVID, he was able to watch videos to learn and draw inspiration from, “I’m YouTube certified,” he says jokingly.

He started by making cutting boards for his own kitchen, then as Christmas presents for family members. During a visit to Elk Ridge Chiropractic & Wellness Center, owner Dr. Natasha asked if he could make cutting boards for her to give to her employees for Christmas presents.

And so it began...

He practiced using his tools by building furniture and jigs for his shop. To this point he had not purchased any wood to work with. It had all come from local cabinet shops that gave him their cut offs or allowed him to pull workable wood from their dumpsters. “It took a lot of extra work to turn scraps into something that I could use, but it gave me the opportunity to learn how to use my tools.”

Ryan’s wife Marcee had several art pieces that she had collected over the years that he has built frames for, including a canvas wedding photo that he’d had printed with their vows on it. “I like building frames,” Ryan said. “They enhance the beauty of the artwork and can be works of art themselves.”

As his skills advanced, he built a standing bookshelf out of maple for his son and a folding serving table for his daughter for Christmas the following year. Once he had experienced larger projects, his chiropractor had another project in mind for him: hope chests for his daughters. “They were a big project

Argonaut Launches the Supernaut

by ERIK BERGSTROM, Marketing Director — Argonaut

Argonaut’s commitment to high-quality craftsmanship is evident in the Supernaut, their latest addition to the family of bikes they build and stock in Bend. The Supernaut, designed to enhance ride quality, represents the easiest point of entry into the Argonaut family. Argonaut builds and stocks a fleet of Superbikes, GR3 gravel bike and RM3 road bikes in the Supernaut build. In creating these bikes, Argonaut looked at the bike holistically, curating every element of the bike to work harmoniously. Improved ride quality enables riders to get more out of their bodies and machines while providing greater connection to their terrain.

Sixth Annual Fastest 20 Awards Spotlight Central Oregon Rising Stars

by JEFF MARTIN — President, Cascade Publications

Tonight we award the Central Oregon Fastest 20 Growing Businesses in Central Oregon at the Oxford Hotel in downtown Bend. While those that qualified for the Top 20 are aware they are on the list, they don’t find out who is the #1 fastest growing business until the unveiling at the event.

Umpqua Bank and Capstone CPAs teamed with CBN to recognize the fastest-growing companies located in the Tri-County region. The qualifying criteria for this group included companies established and operating on or before January 1, 2020, with gross annual revenues of at least $100,000 in the last fiscal year, reporting consistent year-over-year growth in earnings through 2022, confirmed by our professionals at Umpqua and Capstone.

The top 20 featured a wide array of business types and industry sectors, from hi-tech, real estate, services industry, architecture, arts and more.

The Deschutes River Conservancy (DRC) is excited to announce the return of the Raise the Deschutes seminar series for its second season starting this November. This season promises to be even more expansive, reaching communities throughout Central Oregon, all made possible in part due to a generous grant from the Roundhouse Foundation.

The upcoming season will kick off with a thought-provoking seminar titled Is the Drought Over? Comparing the Deschutes and Crooked Rivers at Worthy Brewing in Bend. Following this, Central Oregonians in Prineville, Sisters, Madras, and Sunriver can anticipate engaging seminars touching upon a range of water conservation and sustainability topics.

To ensure greater accessibility for all interested attendees, the seminar series will be available both in-person and via streaming platforms again this year.

DRC Executive Director, Kate Fitzpatrick, expressed her enthusiasm, “This new season symbolizes our commitment to raising awareness and understanding of our Deschutes River ecosystem. We’re thrilled to continue this important dialogue and education.”

Serán Bioscience Breaks Ground on Additional cGMP Manufacturing Capacity at its Bend Site

Due to exceptionally high demand for cGMP manufacturing of complex medicines, Serán is doubling its existing clinical manufacturing facility from seven to 14 suites. The new state-of-the-art facility is designed to be highly configurable and flexible to meet our clients’ unique needs. With this investment, Serán will be able to significantly increase its production capacity to manufacture complex formulations and advance novel medicines into early and late-stage clinical studies.

Serán has over 190 team members and ten facilities with ~ 90,000 sq. ft. of cGMP-manufacturing capabilities. The new facility will be a critical component in meeting the growing demand for complex medicines.

DESHUTES COUNTY

Starting December 1st, owners of eligible properties can apply for rural Accessory Dwelling Unit (ADU) permits through Deschutes County Community Development.

On November 1st, the Board of Commissioners passed new rules to allow ADUs in certain unincorporated areas of Deschutes County after considering public feedback and recommendations from the Deschutes County Planning Commission.

Not all properties will be eligible for ADUs. Based on state and local ordinances, rural ADUs are subject to additional development standards compared to typical residential projects.

To qualify for an ADU:

- The property must be located in a rural residential zoned area (*RR10, MUA10, UAR10, RR 2 1/2 and WTZ Zones)
- In most unincorporated areas of the County, the property must be at least two acres. In Southern Deschutes County, the property must be at least five acres.
- The ADU is limited to 900 square feet of useable floor space (*excludes attached garage areas, porches, and decks)
- The ADU must be located within 100 feet from the primary dwelling
- The ADU must comply with all applicable state laws relating to water supply, sanitation and wastewater disposal

For a full list of zoning standards and permitting requirements, please visit: deschutes.org/adu.

On Thursday, November 30th, 2023, staff will host a public information session for anyone who is interested in learning more about rural ADUs. The session will be held at the Deschutes Services Center, 1300 NW Wall Street, in Bend from 3-4pm. The session will be held in-person with an option to attend virtually as well. Please RSVP at the following link if you wish to attend in-person as there will be limited space available: DeschutesCountyADUInfo.eventbrite.com.

If you have general questions concerning ADU development, please contact the Deschutes County Planning Division, call 541-388-6560 or email planning@deschutes.org.

Deschutes County has renewed efforts to recruit residents who are interested in serving on its Historic Landmarks Commission. Interested residents can apply at deschutes.org/jobs until December 1st.

The Deschutes County Historic Landmarks Commission (HLC) serves as a hearing body for matters concerning historic and cultural resources within unincorporated Deschutes County and the City of Sisters. It also coordinates historic preservation programs of the county, state and federal governments, and advises the Board of County Commissioners (BCC) on historic and cultural resource policy.

The County has three vacant positions for at-large members who reside in Deschutes County. The first vacancy will fill the remainder of an existing term until March 31, 2024, with an opportunity for additional four-year terms. The second and third vacancies will fill the remainder of existing terms until March 31, 2026, with an opportunity for additional four-year terms.

The Historic Landmarks Commission meets quarterly on the first Monday of February, May, August, and November at 5:30pm at the Deschutes Services Building in Bend. Additional meetings and locations throughout the County may be required.

Those interested in serving are invited to submit a complete application form which includes a letter of interest and resume, describing their interest in rural historic preservation issues and ability to serve collaboratively on a committee.

Recognizing & Addressing Toxic Work Environments for a Healthier Career

by ABBY GORMAN, Owner — Symplexi Employee Development

A toxic work environment can have a detrimental impact on your physical and mental well-being. But what’s essential to understand is that your role in this situation isn’t limited to being a passive victim. Each person has the power to contribute to positive change within their workplace or, if necessary, the freedom to leave and seek healthier pastures. First, I want to discuss some signs of a toxic work environment and how you can take control of your professional life. Here are some potential red flags that you are in a toxic work environment.

- Negative Atmosphere: In a toxic work environment, negativity pervades every interaction. Constant complaining, gossip, and cynicism create a hostile atmosphere that affects everyone’s morale.

- Poor Leadership: Inadequate or toxic leadership can be a significant factor. Leaders who micromanage, belittle, or disregard their team members contribute to a hostile work environment. When evaluating this, it is important to deal with facts, not opinions.

- Lack of Respect: When colleagues and supervisors fail to treat each other respectfully and professionally, it breeds toxicity. Disrespectful behavior can manifest as bullying, harassment, or exclusion.

- High Turnover: Frequent resignations, especially from key team members, indicate deeper issues within the workplace. High turnover is often a sign that something is wrong.

- Unrealistic Expectations: If your workload is overwhelming, unrealistic, or unmanageable, it can lead to stress and burnout, contributing to a toxic atmosphere. You can contribute to positive change. If you find yourself in a toxic work environment, it’s essential to remember that you have the power to make a difference. Here are some steps you can take to contribute to a healthier workplace.

- Open Communication: Engage in honest, constructive conversations with colleagues and superiors. Address your concerns and seek solutions to common issues. Communication can help to shed light on problems and effect positive change.

- Set Boundaries: Establish clear personal and professional boundaries. Don’t let toxicity encroach on your personal space. Politely but firmly decline to participate in gossip or drama.

- Be a Positive Role Model: Lead by example. Maintain professionalism, respect, and a positive attitude. Your behavior can influence others, creating a ripple effect of positive change.

- Seek Support: Reach out to HR, employee assistance programs, or a coach if necessary. These resources can offer guidance and assistance in handling workplace issues.

- Self-Care: Prioritize self-care and stress management. Build resilience to the negativity around you by maintaining a healthy work-life balance, engaging in stress-reduction activities, and seeking professional help if needed.

Remember that you have the power to leave. Sometimes, a toxic work environment may not improve despite your best efforts. In such cases, you have the power to make the difficult decision to leave. Here’s why it’s important to realize that this is always an option.

- Protect Your Health: Prolonged exposure to a toxic work environment can take a severe toll on your mental and physical health. Prioritize your well-being above all else.

- Professional Growth: Staying in a toxic workplace can hinder your professional development. Leaving may open doors to better opportunities where you can thrive and reach your full potential.

- Life Is Too Short: Life is too short to spend most of your waking hours in a toxic environment. Leaving may be the best decision for your overall happiness and life satisfaction.

In summary, if you find yourself in a toxic work environment, remember that you have the power to contribute to positive change or leave if necessary. Recognize the signs of toxicity, take proactive steps to foster a healthier atmosphere, and prioritize your well-being. Toxicity in the workplace is a shared responsibility, and your actions can influence the culture around you. Ultimately, your professional happiness and growth should be the driving force behind your decision to stay and contribute or leave and seek a more positive work environment.

If you own a small business, chances are your sales and workload will see an increase ahead of the holiday season. According to Deloitte, an estimated total of more than $1.5 trillion will be spent during the 2023 holiday season. If you are considering adding additional support during this peak season, here are some tips to find the right temporary talent:

It All Starts with a Job Description

One of the biggest challenges to avoid is a lack of clarity on employment terms. You want to make sure only candidates looking for temporary employment are applying, which saves you from an awkward conversation later about ending the position. Make sure to include the words “seasonal”, “holiday”, or “temporary” in the job title to appear in a keyword search by those looking for this type of position. It is important to also include the specific dates for when the position will begin and end, so that applicants can set appropriate expectations and can plan accordingly for work opportunities after the holiday season. Since these positions will be short-term, be sure to list any specific skills you would like applicants to bring, in order to save time on lengthy training.

Using the Right Recruitment Methods

Because seasonal employment carries a sense of urgency, it is important to pursue avenues of recruitment with more immediate results. Consider sharing the position on sites such as LinkedIn and Indeed, but also consider more informal methods of recruitment to target candidates more specifically with your required skills. Post the job description in local Facebook groups centered on interests that your company aims to serve or groups specifically for people seeking entry-level employment.

Understand that Seasonal and Traditional Hiring are Different

As mentioned, seasonal hiring requires more specific and urgent tactics than traditional hiring might. To avoid acclimation periods and time-consuming training, hire employees with background experience especially similar to the role. By reaching more specific audiences outside of LinkedIn, you can better screen for relevant experience. It is also important to find ways to speed up the onboarding process. Communicate with candidates your sense of urgency when providing offer letters and next steps. Finally, aim for candidates with no current employment, to avoid the two-week window they might need to separate from previous employers.

Conducting Interviews for Seasonal Candidates

With the holidays quickly approaching, substitute lengthy, multiple-step interview processes for more intentional conversations to ask relevant questions. This allows unchosen candidates the ability to pursue other opportunities in time for the holidays, and it maximizes your time as a business owner looking only for a temporary fit, rather than long-term potential. Ensure that you clarify the temporary nature of the position with specific dates, and provide all employment information, including pay, schedule and responsibilities, upfront. Understanding the unique nature of recruitment for seasonal work will position your small business for support and success during this peak consumer period.

Selling Your Business?

Don’t let Uncle Sam become your #1 beneficiary!

www.RosellWealthManagement.com
A new online event series, Intentional Hiking: a conversation, founded by Bend local, Renee Patrick, aims to help the hiking community cultivate more intention about how they spend their time on trails.

The twice-monthly event series will cover a wide array of topics centering on five themes: Be, Do, Create, Learn & Regional Information. Participants will hear from a guest speaker during each event, and they will spend a portion of each session in a small group discussion with guiding conversation prompts centered around the theme. Individuals will be asked to develop an action they plan to take on the theme during their next hike.

The first event of the series is scheduled for Monday, November 20 at 4pm, online, with guest speakers from the Adventure Scientists about how hikers can collect data on their next hiking trip that will inform science and research. To register and learn more please visit intentionalhiking.com.

“As a long-distance backpacker, I’ve long thought there was an opportunity to engage the hiking community in doing more on behalf of the landscapes that make our trails possible,” Patrick explained, “and through a survey I launched this year I learned that 98 percent of other long-distance hikers are concerned as well. These people explained that they want to be a part of the change to make the trail experience more accessible, educational, and want to take action. It became clear to me that I could help facilitate those ideas and conversations, so I created this online discussion series focused on our relationship with the environment, our trails, and each other.”

Intentional Hiking events are centered on the belief that when we see ourselves as part of nature, we act differently. By cultivating a deeper connection to the landscapes we see hiking, we can develop a deeper engagement with social and environmental issues we encounter on hiking trails.

Other events planned this year include guest speaker and thru-hiker Tommy Corey on Transforming Outdoor Spaces Through Photography on December 10, and guest speaker and thru-hiker Matt Berger on Botany on the Trail - The Joy of Plant Identification on December 20.

About Intentional Hiking: a conversation: Intentional Hiking: a conversation is a project of Renee Patrick Consulting. Renee Patrick is a Bend local and triple-crown thru-hiker with over 20 years of experience planning, hiking, and improving long-distance trails. She is an environmentalist and passionate outdoor enthusiast who believes that long-distance hiking can deepen our relationship with the landscapes and environmental issues that desperately need more advocates.

Managing leaves of absence and accommodations of your employees is an important aspect of running a successful business. Leave of absence and accommodations are complex, time-consuming, and require diligent attention to ensure your company remains compliant. The average fine for an ADA violation is $75,000. This can easily be avoided with clear policies, procedures, consistency, and documentation.

It is highly recommended that people managers and administrative staff are familiar with federal, state, and local laws that govern employee leave and accommodation rights, such as the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA), Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), Oregon Family Leave Act (OFLA), and the new 2023 Paid Leave Oregon requirement.

Making it simple: If you have 25 or more employees in Oregon, you are likely obligated to offer OFLA. OFLA supersedes the benefits offered under FMLA, but know that FMLA has leave benefits for things that OFLA does not, which would require both to be offered. ADA is required to be offered if you employ fifteen or more employees and it protects employees from discrimination regarding disabilities, but it may also require a leave of absence in certain circumstances.

First things first, know the requirements for each leave of absence policy, shore up your internal practices and procedures on how to administer to your employees (paperwork, posters, timelines), and maintain proper documentation. It is the employer’s responsibility to make sure employees are aware of their rights and responsibilities as it pertains to a leave of absence.

Helpful tips to remember during the process:
- Differentiate between the types of leave, such as medical, parental, and personal leave.
- Define how leave accrues and is granted.
- Implement a formal process for requesting and approving a leave, and ensure compliance with the required timeframes.
- Create a tracking system to manage employee absences effectively.
- Avoid discrimination or retaliation against employees who request leave or an accommodation.

Train your staff, particularly managers, on anti-discrimination laws and the importance of accommodating disabilities. Consider alternative work arrangements, job modifications, or equipment as accommodation options. Don’t just assume it’s not approved, ensure the process is fair, equitable, and thorough before denying a request.

Maintain records of all interactions and decisions related to leave and accommodation requests and develop a structured return-to-work plan for employees on leave to ensure a smooth transition back to their roles.

Here are some key aspects of the Oregon Family and Medical Leave Act (OFLA):
- To be eligible for OFLA, employees must have worked for their employer for at least 180 days and have worked an average of 25 hours per week in the 180 days preceding the leave request.
- OFLA allows eligible employees to take leave for various reasons, including the birth or adoption of a child, the care of a seriously ill family member, and the employee’s own serious health condition.
- OFLA provides eligible employees with up to 12 weeks of job-protected leave in a 12-month period.
- During OFLA leave, employers are generally required to maintain an employee’s health insurance benefits and other benefits as if the employee were actively working.
- Employees are typically required to provide notice to their employer and, in some cases, provide medical certification when requesting OFLA leave.
- OFLA allows for intermittent leave in certain circumstances when it is medically necessary or for reasons related to the birth or adoption of a child.
- OFLA includes provisions for taking up to 24 hours of leave each year for certain “small necessities,” such as school activities or health care appointments for a child.
- OFLA provides parental leave for the birth or adoption of a child. This leave is separate from the medical leave and allows eligible employees to take an additional 12 weeks of leave.

Here are some key aspects of the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA):
- When an employee requests time off for a covered reason, the employer is required to notify the employee of their eligibility for FMLA within five business days.
- If the employee is eligible for FMLA, the employer would then provide the employee with their “Rights and Responsibilities,” as well as any medical certification requests.
- FMLA applies to employees once they have been employed for 12 months, and worked at least 1,250 hours in the previous 12 months before you take leave.
- While FMLA has a rule regarding location and distance to the office; keep in mind that telecommuting policies have provided new guidance on how to manage this. It is recommended to consult legal counsel prior to denying an FMLA claim of a remote employee.

Remember that each situation is unique, so it’s important to approach leave of absence and accommodation requests on a case-by-case basis while adhering to legal requirements and ensuring fairness and consistency across the organization. Consulting with HR professionals or legal experts can be valuable in navigating these complex cases.

#1 — BRANWYN

Year Established in Central Oregon: 2022

Product/Services Offered: BRANWYN is the only ethical, sustainable, and tech-driven next-to-body innerwear made by and for active women. Our breakthrough bra and underwear are constructed with Italian seamless knitting machines. BRANWYN transforms ZQ certified Merino wool fibers into performance innerwear with the simple idea to support all women, in all ways, always.

Outlook for Growth: BRANWYN is poised to build on its foundation of investing in all available credit and taking a lot of chances. Intertwined in our products, company, and brand is knowledge that the planet is a better place when women are fully supported. BRANWYN, sports and time outdoors are gateways to a sense of self, the power women possess, and moments of grace and connection. We invest in and live our brand values.

Do you attribute your rapid growth to? Intertwined in our products, company, and brand is knowledge that the planet is a better place when women are fully supported. At BRANWYN, sports and time outdoors are gateways to a sense of self, the power women possess, and moments of grace and connection. We invest in and live our brand values.

What is your vision for growth and/or expansion over the next five years? We have the roots and foundation of a classic heritage brand. When the norm is to try and do everything to everything, we committed to creating the highest performance innerwear only and specifically for women. Our direct relationship with our customers is built on trust and transparency.

Our commitment is also to the future of our planet and we believe women in leadership is at the center of a sustainable planet. Any future growth is with our customer and community at the center: we will create new product and offerings based on our customer’s needs; we will strengthen our connection with her through a diversified distribution channel.

What is your philosophy to running a successful company? For BRANWYN, a successful company is not just about financially profitable or being a fast-growth company. A successful company is one that does more than “do no harm” but that commits to making the world a better place through the people it touches, whether employees, consultants, or customers and the products it puts in the world.

#2 — Dirtbag Enterprises LLC

Official Name of Business: Dirtbag Enterprises LLC

Address: Bend, Oregon

Website: Branwyn.com

Contact Email: info@branwyn.com; deanne@branwyn.com

CEO/Owners, background: Jeff (CEO) and Lauren Shafer, owners; Deanne Buck, president

Number of Employees: Two employees plus an incredible team of consultants.

Outlook for Growth: We are planning to continue to expand and work on sourcing inventory through a wider network of relationships beyond just primary market on-sales. In addition to opening more avenues for inventory acquisition, we also hope to hire once more in the spring and continue to grow our numbers.

What do you attribute your rapid growth to? The key to the success of the business has been investing in early in acts before their true market value is well-known. In addition to that, we have been reinvesting 100 percent of profits, utilizing all available credit and taking a lot of chances.

What is your vision for growth and/or expansion over the next five years? The plan is to just keep doing what we’re doing, none of us actually know anything about business but it’s been working out so far. I do think this makes things a little stressful for our accountant (sorry Greg) — we certainly intend to get our books more organized over the next five years.

Year Established in Central Oregon: 2013
Product/Services Offered: Onboard Dynamics develops, produces and deploys through a hybrid business model patented compression-based systems that minimize methane and other GHG releases during natural gas pipeline operations and maintenance and capture methane that would otherwise be released to the atmosphere with their products.

Hot News: The company has recently launched its latest product offering called the GoVAC MAX system to much anticipation from the industry. This past May, the company was named a recipient of an $800K grant from Business Oregon to help in research, development, engineering, building, testing, and successful launch of the GoVAC MAX system. The grant from the Emerging Opportunity Fund is awarded to businesses based in Oregon that help bring significant local economic gain.

Outlook for Growth: The company plans to continue its growth in deploying its infrastructure to expand at a more rapid rate in 2025.

What do you attribute your rapid growth to? We attribute our rapid recent growth to a great partnership with BP Energy Partners, a private equity firm that specializes in technology companies that focus on energy transition to a lower carbon future. Through their support and growth capital, we have been able to quickly commercialize and deploy our solutions for the natural gas industry to prevent methane emissions during normal pipeline operations and maintenance. All while continuing to grow the company here in Bend, Oregon where we have access to technical talent from our local educational institutions such as OSU-Cascades and COCC.

What is your vision for growth and/or expansion over the next five years? We are excited that this is an emerging technology solution in an emerging market and that we have the right products at the right time to address this need for our customers. As mentioned above, we are targeting not only the United States but other geographies such as Canada, Europe, and other areas that have natural gas pipeline infrastructure to maintain and operate. We will continue to grow the company here in Bend in administration, engineering, and operations functions while also working to keep as much manufacturing in the state.

What is your philosophy to running a successful company? From day one, the founding principle of my company has been to develop products that provide environmental benefits to our customers compared to currently established products and accepted practices in the marketplace. This has been a guiding principle due to the core values of the co-founders and all subsequent employees and contractors engaged by the company. In addition, we wouldn’t be here if we did not listen to the voice of our customers who pointed us towards the problems that they were facing. Customer discovery work and understanding customer issues are core to being a modern day maverick and innovator in this industry. Also, we work to embrace empathy, compassion, respect, and tenacity as our key values to running an innovative, successful company.

#4 — RISE Modern Wellness

Official Name of Business: RISE Modern Wellness
Address: 320 SW Century Dr, Ste. 400, Bend
Phone: 541-499-3225
Website: risemodernwellness.com
Contact Email: franchise@risemodernwellness.com
CEO/owners, background: Garrett Ahlberg, CEO; Rachel Ahlberg, COO
Number of Employees: 25
Year Established in Central Oregon: 2018
Product/Services Offered: Whole body cryotherapy, infrared saunas, body contouring, IV therapy, vitamin injections, dry salt therapy, state of the art modern wellness center.

Hot News: We began franchising our concept in October of 2022. Our 1st franchisee opened in April of 2023 in Boise, Idaho and is doing well. We have since added eight other franchisees to our system who have a development schedule to build out 17 locations over the next several years in various market throughout the U.S. including states such as Texas, North Carolina, Florida, Utah, and Arizona.

Outlook for Growth: We are positioned well to open up ten new locations by the end of 2024. Throughout 2024 we plan to build out the necessary company infrastructure to expand at a more rapid rate in 2025.

By the end of 2025, we have aspirations to have over 30 locations open at this point with more than 100 locations open by the end of 2027.

What do you attribute your rapid growth to? Ability to continuously listen to what the market wants and improve upon the product offerings based on feedback. Our objective is to make a product so good that word of mouth happens without asking for it from your existing client base because people simply can’t help themselves from expressing how good their experience was to their friends and family members.

What is your vision for growth and/or expansion over the next five years? Open 100+ locations by the end of 2027 with continuous expansion from there.

Five years from today we plan to achieve an AUV (Average unit volume) of $1mil/ storefront with over 100 stores open... so system-wide revenues of over $100mil.

What is your philosophy to running a successful company? Building a company comes down to letting the people you recruit build the business because you simply can’t do it alone. So rather than giving orders to your team... it means you let the people come to you with ideas on how to grow and improve in various areas because they have greater depth of knowledge within that particular area.

Therefore, the job of a CEO is put people in a position that lights them up and makes them excited about what they do so that they have the drive and desire to bring great ideas and strategy to the table.

Compared to a sports team: The CEO is the coach... the people within the organization represent each position on a team.

Number of Employees: 5
Year Established in Central Oregon: 2017
Product/Services Offered: Painting services including exterior, interior, decks, cabinet painting and staining, color consultation.
What do you attribute your rapid growth to? I believe networking and connecting with builders and clients has been my biggest attribute to growth. Construction in Central Oregon has been hot for the last several years and you really have to make sure your company stands out. From the initial meet and greet, completing the job on time and most importantly providing the highest level of quality painting and customer service.
What is your vision for growth and/or expansion over the next five years? My vision for growth and expansion for the next five years is continuing the process of hiring more employee and keep expanding. Focus on marketing and growing our business by 15 percent each year.
What is your philosophy to running a successful company? My philosophy to running a successful company is exceeding customer expectations in everything we do and holding ourselves accountable at every step. Also, taking care of your people! I do my best to really show my appreciation to my guys because I wouldn’t be where I am without them.

#9 — The Montessori Center Inc

Official Name of Business: The Montessori Center Inc
Address: 221 S Ash St., Sisters
Phone: 541-549-2077
Website: themontessoricenterbend.com
Contact Email: andi@themontessoricenterbend.com
CEO/owners, background: Andrea Snyder, Alexa Davio, Will Elkins and Liz Elkins
Number of Employees: 15
Year Established in Central Oregon: 2003
Product/Services Offered: Montessori preschool for children ages 36 months to six years old.
Hot News: The Montessori Center is one of the largest preschools in Central Oregon serving 100 families. We provide a child-centered environment, in which children are viewed as active participants in their own development, strongly influenced by natural self-correcting forces opening the path to growth and learning. Our teachers are considered nurturers and guides to the children. We provide a carefully prepared, aesthetically pleasing environment which is used as a tool to provide a foundation for a lifetime of happiness in the classroom and a lasting love of learning.
Outlook for Growth: The Montessori Center was founded in 2003 by Nancy Elkins. Her passion for Montessori started in her hometown when her children were young, and took her around the world to many International Montessori schools. She moved to Bend in 2002 and after encouragement from her family, opened The Montessori Center for her young grandchildren. Nancy passed in 2022 and her children have taking over the school. We currently have two locations serving 100 families in Central Oregon.
We hope to grow and expand our program to include infant, toddler and possibly an elementary program.

What do you attribute your rapid growth to? We attribute our growth to the foundation our Mother set in her program. With the shortage of childcare in Central Oregon, we are proud to own and operate an affordable, quality Montessori program for our families.

What is your vision for growth and/or expansion over the next five years? Our vision is to maintain the classrooms we currently have and introduce infant, toddler and elementary programs to our school.

What is your philosophy to running a successful company? We are a family owned and operated school. We attribute much of our success to our dedication to continuing our mother’s passion and to stay true to our founding core values. None of this would be possible without our staff, who implement her vision in their classrooms every day.

That's why we strive to create a welcoming and supportive environment for all of our patients and their families.

animals are our family, and our staff is dedicated to providing the highest quality care to pets and their families. To meet the growing needs of the community, VRCCO is expanding to a new state-of-the-art facility on the East side.

The new 26,000-square-foot hospital will feature more space, better diagnostic tools, and additional services, including a bone and joint center, physical therapy, and an animal-dedicated MRI. The hospital is expected to open in January 2024.

In addition to its new hospital, VRCCO is also excited to announce Ponch's Place, a new gathering place for the people to enjoy food, and drinks, and help VRCCO continue to make connections within the community. Ponch's Place will have room to house four food trucks as well as a beer pavilion.

Outlook for Growth: We are fortunate to be one of the few hospitals in the Pacific NW to grow our services, expand hours, and hire more staff throughout the COVID-19 pandemic. Having a new facility will allow us to expand our reach of specialty services and emergency care. At our core, we are committed to providing the best possible experience and care to our patients, their families, and our staff. With that in mind, we will continue to add additional services, technology, and infrastructure to ensure we stay true to our mission and vision. We are excited to see what the future holds for VRCCO.

What do you attribute your rapid growth to? Our adherence to our core values has created a positive, empathetic, and caring culture for our team and our patients. These values include going beyond expectations, providing a personalized journey, always displaying compassion, and providing opportunities for education.

What is your vision for growth and/or expansion over the next five years? With our new Eastside facility, VRCCO will be able to expand our specialty services and diagnostics to better serve the Central Oregon community as well as those unable to find better care in the Pacific Northwest. We have recently hired the first and only veterinary neurologist in Central Oregon, and we will be the only hospital in the region with a pet-dedicated MRI. We will also be opening a dedicated Spine, Bone, and Joint Center that is geared toward providing the most comprehensive orthopedic and spinal surgery options, including advanced surgeries such as total replacements. This new center will be complemented by in-house physical therapy to ensure the best possible outcomes for our patients.

What is your philosophy to running a successful company? Our philosophy is to deliver a positive journey for every patient, regardless of the circumstance or outcome. We understand that nobody wants to see the vet, especially when it comes to complex cases and emergencies, which can be emotionally draining, costly, and time-consuming. That's why we strive to create a welcoming and supportive environment for all of our patients and their families.

What do you attribute your rapid growth to? Although Pinnacle's growth is rapid, it is also thoughtful and measured. The firm's success is attributed to a combination of strategic factors — continuous planning and nimbleness, building expertise in key markets, and investing in developing staff. Pinnacle's entire staff engages in strategic planning efforts each year. It's not a document that collects dust. It's a roadmap followed throughout the year and continuously revisited to allow course corrections based on current influences. What's unique is how the firm combines the staff's individual professional goals with the firm's vision to move the company forward.

What is your vision for growth and/or expansion over the next five years? Pinnacle's vision is to be a catalyst for improving communities making a greater impact on individuals within and beyond each project. To achieve this vision, the firm is focused internally on creating a thriving firm culture and crafting a resilient firm. By developing leaders and putting a diverse ownership group in place, the firm will continue to prosper and be a trusted advisor to clients and the communities they work.

What is your philosophy to running a successful company? Pinnacle Architecture's philosophy for running a successful company is rooted in a strong commitment to constant improvement. When Peter Baer named the firm, he wanted something that would live beyond his ownership. Peter describes "Pinnacle" as always looking up to achieve a new goal and striving to be the best. Pinnacle understands that the team's diverse talents and perspectives are the greatest assets. Therefore, the firm focuses on developing staff, understanding client's needs, and sustaining a solid reputation.

We operate one of the largest private U.S. fleets of EOS Direct Metal Laser Melting machines.
Hot News: In a move that underscores the strategic importance of 3D printing technologies in traditional manufacturing sectors, i3Dmgf has been acquired by ERA Industries. The acquisition took place on October 6, 2023, and integrates i3Dmgf into a portfolio that already includes precision manufacturing specialists Gen El Mec (GEM). With roots going back over 40 years, Chicago-based ERA Industries specializes in precision machining and assemblies for key sectors including aerospace, military, and medical industries. The company is known for its multi-axis capabilities and has been involved in the aerospace and medical contract manufacturing spaces. This acquisition follows the earlier inclusion of Oxford, CT-based GEM into ERA’s fold, adding even more depth to its expertise and talent pool.
Outlook for Growth: Both i3D and the 3D metal production market are poised to the state and federal forest fires throughout the summer months.

What do you attribute your rapid growth to? i3D prides itself on discipline and tenacity. Once the 3D metal printing industry experienced production growth, the aerospace & defense industries. We operate over in the next two years. We think Bend and the Central Oregon area will always be a desirable place to live and travel to.

Central Oregon is a great place to live and play, but it’s also the home of some of the most interesting businesses and products in the world. This month let’s look at a few of the amazing products you can find in Central Oregon.

Golfboard
I’ve been a fan of the Segway scooter ever since I covered the launch decades ago. Much of the fun was related to the fact that no one outside of Segway seemed to know that a unique two-wheel scooter (with the wheels on the sides instead of front and back) was about to launch and change the lives of security guards worldwide while providing us with some funny YouTube videos of things going out of control. Well, GolfBoard makes a four-wheel golfing scooter that reminds me a bit of the Segway but doesn’t have the restrictive price. The GolfBoard is a bit like a standup go-cart and is designed for those who want a more personal alternative to the golf cart. It’s more fun and allows a single golfer or someone who doesn’t trust other drivers to comfortably ride from hole to hole. It looks like a ton of fun!

Tribe Pilot
Tribe Pilot is a relatively new social app that allows a user to create a detailed plan for their outdoor experiences. Much of Central Oregon, and particularly Bend, is designed around resorts and having fun. Tribe Pilot helps people plan a trip to optimize their time and prioritize the experiences that visitors enjoy most. It is a critical tool for those whose time is limited while vacationing and want to still have the most fun while here.

Volansi
Volansi builds drones for commercial deliveries. While drone delivery isn’t yet a thing in Central Oregon, it is believed that rural areas like this one are most ideal for drone delivery. Volansi is jumping on that opportunity. Volansi is a firm that believes that soon, many, if not most, of us will be getting our deliveries by drone, assuring it will arrive safely and when we are around so that we don’t have to constantly worry about porch pirates.

Bellatrix Systems
Bellatrix creates electronic control and security systems. As the region deals with significant population growth, vacationers, homeless people, and an increasing number of climate refugees, the need to secure our businesses has never been greater. Founded back in 1986 (long before the character in the Harry Potter series), Bellatrix Systems provides effective technologies to better control and secure your business.

Sony Bend Studio
Bend is also the home of one of Sony’s video game development units. While Sony itself is still clearly Japanese, Sony’s Bend Studio, which was founded back in 1993, produces video games that can be bought and played worldwide. Sony remains the largest and most powerful of the companies making video game consoles, and it is fascinating that some of the most creative work is done here in Sony’s Bend Studio.

Wrapping Up:
Central Oregon is a wonderful place to live and play, but it is becoming one of the most sought-after places to work, as well, with companies building impressive apps, games, and unique products for residents and visitors alike. I’ve listed just some of the companies and products that impressed me but look around. I’m sure you’ll be amazed at what some of these companies can do.

The Dry Canyon Forge
Bend's Downtown Blacksmith

by NOAH NELSON — CBN Feature Writer

Joe Elliott, the founder and owner of Dry Canyon Forge, a blacksmithing shop off of Greenwood Avenue in Downtown Bend, has been blacksmithing since he first witnessed the craft at a conference back in 1976.

I had just graduated college, Joe said. And I had just found out that I spent college doing the wrong thing.

From that moment, it took Joe about ten years to become a full-time blacksmith. In the meantime, he moved to Bend back in 1979, back when the town was smaller and less developed. I've been here long enough to remember when the first million dollar home was constructed, and everybody was blown away, Joe said.

Back when Joe moved here and before Bend was as popular as it is now, the town was still a destination for outdoor recreation, and growth was almost inevitable. While construction wasn't booming the year Joe moved to town, it began to soon after.

At first, doing traditional forgings was a very hard way to make a living, Joe said. Slowly, the business started taking off because Bend got discovered, and we had an influx of wealth move into town.

As more and more people moved to Bend to enjoy everything the small town had to offer, more high-end construction began popping up. As it did, Joe and his traditional forging skills became a very popular option among some of Bend's wealthiest populations.

I got discovered as Bend got discovered, Joe said. I ended up working for extremely wealthy people, and I learned that that is not an audience that you can market to with traditional advertising. That was all word of mouth, and they will find you if they want to.

Even now, Joe doesn't have the name of his business on the building. He does not rely at all on advertising or foot traffic, because he solely operates on word of mouth; testament to his skill as a blacksmith and a tradesman.

Joe ended up being the go-to blacksmith for a number of contractors, architects and interior designers, connecting his work to a multitude of homes and public spaces across Central Oregon. At the height of the business, Joe was running the show with seven employees, and he was completing projects like steel gates and spiral staircases for clients large and small, including Pronghorn Resort and the High Desert Museum.

Things were going great for the Dry Canyon Forge, but then the Great Recession of 2007 hit and the housing market in Bend crashed. Without much or any new construction, maintaining the business became more difficult than ever.

The construction trade was devastated in 07 and I ended up having to lay some guys off," Joe said. "That was really hard, really really hard. I hired people who had common sense and a good work ethic, and they were all good guys. You end up feeling responsible for them."

Joe shared his philosophy on hiring within his industry, "I said to them, you gotta give me three years, The first year, I’ll lose money on you. The second year, I break even. The third year, you make me money," adding at the end that the shortest anyone had ever worked for him was between six and seven years.

As the economy and Bend’s housing market recovered, so did the forge. More pleasant years went by with usual ups and downs, but then 2020 brought the COVID-19 Pandemic and the resulting shutdowns. During this time, Joe had to let go of an employee who had been working with him for 13 years. "It was very difficult," Joe said. "At that point I felt like I’m not going to hire anyone."

During the Pandemic, Joe created a set of rules for himself and his business that act as a filter. Now, he keeps a very high standard and only works with reputable clients who he knows can afford his time, sticking to the word-of-mouth formula that has brought him 35 years of success here in Bend.

Nowadays without many new clients, Joe occasionally opens up the Dry Canyon Forge for metalworkers and blacksmiths to work on their projects and hone their craft. He has hosted workshops in collaboration with other local metalworks, and many members of the Central Oregon Metal Arts Guild, or COMAG.

As for the future? Joe is looking to spend more time down in Mexico, and he’s hoping to find a buyer for the building as he works himself into retirement. Looking back on his professional life, Joe seems happy. "It’s been a wonderful profession," he said. "My bad clients, I can count on one hand, and I wouldn’t even need the whole hand. Not bad for 35 years."
for my little car-and-a-half garage-turned-woodshop," Ryan said. After seeing the finished product, Dr. Natasha then requested an additional project for her office — a set of six-foot floating shelves in the front office made of two-inch thick juniper slabs and epoxy, and another eight-foot shelf for patients to use.

During the time he was working on the projects for Elk Ridge Chiropractic & Wellness Center, the owners of Flight’s Wine Bar received a referral to Ryan while looking for someone to build wooden crates for wine — an Advent Cuvée; a collection of premium wines like an advent calendar — to offer their patrons. "The first year I built the crates for Flight’s I struggled to get the tolerances perfect because I was using 30-year-old, worn-out tools," Ryan stated.

Take Advantage of your Employer-Sponsored Retirement Plan

by ED WETTIG, CFP — United Financial Northwest

Employer-sponsored qualified retirement plans such as 401(k)s are some of the most powerful retirement savings tools available. If your employer offers such a plan and you’re not participating in it, you should be. Once you’re participating in a plan, try to take full advantage of it.

Understand your employer-sponsored plan

Before you can take advantage of your employer’s plan, you need to understand how these plans work. Read everything you can about the plan and talk to your employer’s benefits officer. You can also talk to a financial planner, a tax advisor, and other professionals. Recognize the key features that many employer-sponsored plans share:

- Your employer automatically deducts your contributions from your paycheck. You may never even miss the money — out of sight, out of mind.
- You decide what portion of your salary to contribute, up to the legal limit. And you can usually change your contribution amount on certain dates during the year or as needed.
- With 401(k), 403(b), 457(b), SARSEPs, and SIMPLE plans, you contribute to the plan on a pre-tax basis. Your contributions come off the top of your salary before your employer withholds income taxes.
- Your 401(k), 403(b), or 457(b) plan may let you make after-tax Roth contributions — there’s no up-front tax benefit but qualified distributions are entirely tax free.
- Your employer may match all or part of your contribution up to a certain level. You typically become vested in these employer dollars through years of service with the company.
- Your funds grow tax deferred in the plan. You don’t pay taxes on investment earnings until you withdraw your money from the plan.
- You’ll pay income taxes (and possibly an early withdrawal penalty) if you withdraw your money from the plan.
- If your plan allows loans, you may be able to borrow a portion of your vested balance, up to specified limits.
- Your creditors cannot reach your plan funds to satisfy your debts.

Contribute as much as possible

The money you save for retirement, the better your chances of retiring comfortably. If you can, max out your contribution up to the legal limit (or plan limits, if lower). If you need to free up money to do that, try to cut certain expenses.

Why put your retirement dollars in your employer’s plan instead of somewhere else?

One reason is that your pre-tax contributions to your employer’s plan lower your taxable income but qualified distributions of your contributions and earnings — that is, distributions made after you satisfy a five-year holding period and reach age 59½, become disabled, or die — are tax free.

Another reason is the power of tax-deferred growth. Your investment earnings compound year after year and aren’t taxable as long as they remain in the plan. Over the long term, this gives you the opportunity to build an impressive sum in your employer’s plan. You should end up with a much larger balance than somebody who invests the same amount in taxable investments at the same rate of return.

For example, say you participate in your employer’s tax-deferred plan (Account A). You also have a taxable investment account (Account B). Each account earns 6% per year. You’re in the 24% tax bracket and contribute $5,000 to each account at the end of every year. After 40 years, the money placed in a taxable account would be worth $567,680. During the same period, the tax-deferred account would grow to $820,238. Even after taxes have been deducted from the tax-deferred account, the investor would still receive $623,381. (Note: This example is for illustrative purposes only and does not represent a specific investment.)

Capture the full employer match

If you can’t max out your 401(k) or other plan, you should at least try to contribute up to the limit your employer will match. Employer contributions are basically free money once you’re vested in them (check with your employer to find out when vesting happens). By capturing the full benefit of your employer’s match, you’ll be surprised how much faster your balance grows. If you don’t take advantage of your employer’s generosity, you could be passing up a significant return on your money.

For example, you earn $30,000 a year and work for an employer that has a matching 401(k) plan. The match is 50 cents on the dollar up to 6% of your salary. Each year, you contribute 6% of your salary ($1,800) to the plan and receive a matching contribution of $900 from your employer.

Evaluate your investment choices carefully

Most employer-sponsored plans give you a selection of mutual funds or other investments to choose from. Make your choices carefully. The right investment mix for your employer’s plan could be one of your keys to a comfortable retirement. That’s because over the long term, varying rates of return can make a big difference in the size of your balance. Your financial professional can also help you coordinate your plan investments with your overall investment portfolio.

Know your options when you leave your employer

When you leave your job, your vested balance in your former employer’s retirement plan is yours to keep. You have several options at that point, including:

Tarnow has earned the designation of Certified Home Watch Professional from the NHWA, placing him among the elite Home Watch providers in the industry. The CHWP designation shows his commitment to providing excellent service to his clients. Tarnow also serves as an NHWA Home Watch Boot Camp instructor and as the Chapter Lead for the NHWA Northwest Chapter.

Tarnow moved to Bend from Traverse City, Michigan, in 2007 and with his wife, Amy, enjoys all that the Pacific Northwest has to offer including skiing, hiking, biking on miles of trails, playing in the Deschutes River, or sewing, and baking with her sourdough starter.

The Bend and Sunriver communities are located almost exactly in the center of Oregon. The Bend area is considered the high desert, with a short winter and sunny climate. Though quite a career change, Tarnow finds the customer service aspect of his new field translates seamlessly to property management. Larkin spends his free time hiking and skate skiing on the Forest and takes over as deputy forest supervisor following Shanda Dekome’s promotion to director of Natural Resources in the Intermountain Region of the U.S. Forest Service in Utah earlier this year.

Stock started his career in wildland firefighting after being inspired to serve following the Awbrey Hall Fire in Bend that burned 22 homes in 1990. Stock worked as a seasonal firefighter on the Lolo National Forest in Montana and later the Mt. Hood National Forest before settling in to Central Oregon in 1995 and working his way up the ranks from engine captain to the Fire and Aviation staff officer in 2021.

Stock has an associates of applied science degree in Forest Resources from Mt. Hood Community College and a professional certificate in biological science from University of Nevada at Las Vegas. In his spare time, he enjoys spending time with his wife and two children recreating on the public lands he protects and loves.

Citing the tremendous growth in meals served and plans to assist with meal production for new Central Oregon communities, the Family Kitchen Board of Trustees recently approved the new staff position. Operations manager, Dana Richards was hired for the role beginning October 2. Richards is well known in the local homeless services world for her work opening and managing COVID isolation housing and Project TurnKey housing as unhoused services manager at NeighborImpact, keeping the public informed as community engagement coordinator at 2-1-1 Connect, and advocating for those experiencing houselessness and community involvement coordinator at the Homeless Leadership Coalition (HLC) on the Sounding Board with the City to change land use code for housing opportunities and worked in collaboration with HLC and other service providers to get our local Built For Zero community recognition.

The Bend Chamber announced that four new board members will join the full board of directors on January 1, 2024. The board is an all-volunteer group that guides the mission, policy setting, and governance of the Chamber as they serve the Bend business community.

Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada (GFOA) has awarded the Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting to City of Prineville for its annual comprehensive financial report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2022. The report has been judged by an impartial panel to meet the high standards of the program, which includes demonstrating a constructive "spirit of full disclosure" to clearly communicate its financial story and motivate potential users and user groups to read the report.

The Certificate of Achievement is the highest form of recognition in the area of governmental accounting and financial reporting, and its attainment represents a significant accomplishment by a government and its management.

Government Finance Officers Association (GFOA) advances excellence in government finance by providing best practices, professional development, resources, and practical research for more than 21,000 members and the communities they serve.
J Bar J Youth Services observes Runaway Prevention Month

by JONATHAN BAKER, Director of Development — J Bar J Youth Services

Cascade Youth & Family Center and Grandma’s House provide services and shelter to youth experiencing homelessness, including those who have run away, and to those who are at risk of running away. On November 16, they will be hosting an event at Silver Moon Brewing to spread awareness of the risks these young people in our community face, and to educate the public about solutions and the role they can play in reducing runaway incidents, preventing youth homelessness, and supporting youth experiencing crisis.

November is National Runaway Prevention Month (NRPM), a public awareness campaign designed to “shine a light” on the experiences of youth who have run away and experienced homelessness that too often remain invisible. It is also an opportunity to spotlight the resources available to support youth in crisis throughout the nation. The campaign empowers individuals, organizations, and communities to take action, work together, and help prevent youth homelessness. NRPM is spearheaded by the National Runaway Safeline (NRS) with the support of the Family and Youth Services Bureau (FYSB) and other national and local partners.

November 16 is also NRPM Wear Green Day, we invite you to dress in your favorite green clothes and join us as we “shine a light.” The young people we serve see when the community steps up in support of them. It goes a long way in helping these youth understand that our community cares and wants to support them as they create better futures for themselves. What’s more, helping youth out of homelessness greatly reduces the risk of them experiencing homelessness as adults.

Hopscotch Kids Announces its Latest Expansion Encompassing Full Baby Essentials

by ANDREA WASILEW LARSON

Hopscotch Kids announces the grand opening of our expansion. Our mission has always been to be your go-to destination for baby and children’s clothes, shoes, books, gifts, and gear. Now, we’ve taken that mission a step further by introducing a whole new world of offerings including premium brands of strollers, car seats, baby furniture, and maternity essentials and clothing.

The recent grand opening event celebrated community. As a testament to our dedication to local causes, we’re thrilled to announce that we contributed over $5,000 worth of raffle items to support our very own Summit High School Theater. Giving back is woven into the fabric of our store, and we couldn’t be more excited to make a meaningful impact.

The new expansion features an array of exciting additions to our already extensive inventory, including:

Car Seats and Strollers: Ensure the safety and comfort of your child with our innovative car seats and strollers. Our experienced staff will help with the selection of the perfect travel system for your lifestyle. We also offer complimentary car seat installations and checks with a nationally certified CPST (child passenger safety technician).

Baby Furniture: Find a curated selection of stylish and practical furniture to create the perfect nursery for your little one. From cribs to changing tables, highchairs to baby baths, discover the perfect pieces to create a cozy nursery for your bundle of joy.

Maternity and New Parent Support: Offering an exclusive array of new parent supports, from breast pumps to baby clothes, expectant mothers can now shop for stylish and comfortable maternity clothing, as well as nursing bras, diaper bags, and more.

We also launched a new website that will include a new all-encompassing gift registry on November 13 — hopscotchkids.com.

About Hopscotch Kids: Located in Bend, Oregon, Hopscotch Kids is a full-service children’s store carrying premium brands from around the world. This unique store carries a wide selection of shoes, clothing, strollers and car seats, baby furniture, Maternity and New Parent Support, eco-friendly toys, books, and gifts. Deschutes County & Partners In Care
Proclaim November 2023 as Hospice & Palliative Care Month in Central Oregon

by MAUREEN DOOLEY, Marketing & Communications Manager — Partners In Care

Partners In Care and Deschutes County Commissioners jointly declared November as Hospice and Palliative Care Month in the region during a Board of Commissioners meeting November 1. This proclamation, in alignment with National Hospice and Palliative Care Month, acknowledges the vital importance of hospice and palliative care, which offer compassionate end-of-life care and unwavering support to individuals and their families confronting serious illnesses.

National Hospice and Palliative Care Month, established by then-President Jimmy Carter in 1978, has been observed over the years to recognize the dedicated efforts of those who provide end-of-life care and to raise awareness of the hospice movement’s growth. Recent news of Jimmy Carter’s own journey with hospice services has been an inspirational reminder of the significance of the movement he initiated 45 years ago.

“This proclamation continues the dialogue President Jimmy Carter ignited eight months ago when sharing his own intimate hospice journey with all of us,” said Greg Hagfors, Partners In Care CEO. “Our vision is to inspire compassion and dignity across the community by sharing conversations about how hospice and palliative care have made a difference to so many here in our own region.”

Both organizations encourage the community to take part in Hospice and Palliative Care Month by having courageous conversations about end-of-life preferences with loved ones, empowering individuals to make informed decisions about their care and enhancing the overall health and well-being of our communities.

“Deschutes County, in partnership with Partners In Care, understands the profound impact of hospice and palliative care on the lives of patients and their loves ones,” said Deschutes County Commissioner Tony DeBone. “Through this proclamation, we acknowledge the invaluable services offered by hospice and palliative care programs and recognize the commitment of the professionals, volunteers and organizations who work tirelessly to make these services accessible to those in need of our community.”

Deschutes County and Partners In Care urge the community to learn more about the services available in Central Oregon sooner so that families and their loved ones can benefit from the holistic physical, emotional, and spiritual care support provided by hospice and palliative care teams.

Before the Board of Commissioners of Deschutes County, Oregon

Whereas, Deschutes County in partnership with Partners In Care acknowledges the importance of hospice and palliative care in providing compassionate end-of-life care and support to individuals and their families facing serious illnesses; and

Whereas, during National Hospice and Palliative Care Month, we recognize the invaluable services offered by hospice and palliative care programs across our County and region, and we honor the commitment of the professionals, volunteers, and organizations that make these services available to those in need; and

Whereas, by promoting conversations about end-of-life care preferences and ensuring early access to hospice and palliative care services, we can empower individuals to make informed decisions about their care and enhance the overall health and well-being of our communities; and

Whereas, hospice and palliative care providers in Deschutes County are dedicated to enhancing the quality of life for individuals with life-limiting illnesses, addressing their physical, emotional, and spiritual needs, and ensuring that they can live their remaining days with dignity and comfort; and

Whereas, Deschutes County is committed to ensuring equitable access to healthcare services, acknowledging the importance of social equity and inclusivity in the delivery of care.

Now, therefore be it resolved that the Deschutes County Board of Commissioners proclaims the month of November, 2023 to be “Hospice & Palliative Care Month” in Deschutes County in partnership with Partners In Care, and encourages community members across Central Oregon to start the conversation sooner and elect to use palliative care or hospice earlier when diagnosed with a serious or terminal illness, so that both they and their loved ones can benefit from the holistic physical, emotional, and spiritual care support provided by hospice and palliative care teams.

Dated this 1st day of November 2023 by the Deschutes County Board of Commissioners.

About Partners In Care:
Partners In Care is a local, independent, 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization serving a 10,000 square mile region of Central Oregon. It is now the leading provider of hospice, home health, and palliative care in the region, with over 200 staff members and over 150 volunteers. In addition to community Hospice care in homes, facilities, and Hospice House, Partners In Care also provides: Home Health; Palliative Care symptom management and support; a non-medical case management program called Transitions; and Grief Support for adults and children experiencing a loss.

commitment to spreading awareness about water conservation and the significant role of the Deschutes River in our community. We’re grateful for the Roundhouse Foundation’s grant, allowing us to broaden our reach and impact.” The Roundhouse Foundation’s financial support is a testament to their dedication to community enrichment and environmental stewardship. This collaborative effort not only boosts the ‘Raise the Deschutes’ seminar series but also echoes both organizations’ shared vision for a sustainable and informed Central Oregon.

“At The Roundhouse Foundation, we believe in the power of community,” shared Executive Director and Trustee, Erin Borla. “Supporting efforts like the ‘Raise the Deschutes’ seminar series represents an opportunity to collaborate and share information about water resources throughout our region. This work can inspire Central Oregonians to get to know their neighbors to better understand the unique challenges around this resource.”

Residents across Central Oregon are encouraged to participate in these sessions, which will delve deep into water management practices, local hydrology, river ecology, and concrete steps our communities can take for water conservation. The seminar series promises insights from expert guest speakers in the water conservation and sustainability field.

To register for the next Raise the Deschutes seminar on December 13 or for more details on the seminar series, future dates, and locations, please visit the Deschutes River Conservancy’s website at deschutesriver.org.

square feet in Bend. This facility expansion will require a wide range of skills and professional experiences, which Serán hopes to cultivate locally. Serán is partnering with Oregon Bioscience Association (oregonbio.org) to establish a state-sponsored apprenticeship program with the goal of providing paid employment and education to entry-level operations and laboratory technicians. Serán values local partnerships that improve the health and livability of our community.

“Serán is excited to continue our growth in Bend,” said Dan Smitheyer, president and CEO. “This facility expansion is expected to add 20-30 additional positions. Serán is committed to contributing stable and rewarding career opportunities in Central Oregon.”

About Serán:

Serán’s leadership team has been at the forefront of enabling pharmaceutical technologies for decades. The state-of-the-art manufacturing facilities in Bend are equipped with the latest technologies that empower pharmaceutical dosage-form solutions that are not just effective, but transformative. Serán utilizes a range of novel technologies and pharmaceutical manufacturing operations to overcome drug development challenges for both small and large molecules, including complex granulations, spray dried dispersions, hot melt extrudates, IR and MR tablet technologies, multiparticulates, and engineered particles for inhalation. The facility expansion leverages Serán’s expertise and commitment to supporting its large and small pharmaceutical customers from early to late-stage clinical manufacturing.

The cGMP facility capacity expansion is expected to be complete in the second quarter of 2024. seranbio.com
